The best part is you can stop worrying about being hacked after losing your.Q: OpenCL random number generator Is there a built-in OpenCL random number generator available in the CUDA or OpenCL implementation of NVIDIA GPUs? I'm trying to understand if I can use the reference C implementation of OpenCL for the purpose of random number generation (that is, I don't want to replicate the random number generation into my OpenCL kernel code). I understand that there is more than one OpenCL implementation (one for each target platform), and I also know that AMD has a GPU random number generator (GPRNG) that is built into their GPU compute units (PGPRNG). I don't know, however, if it's available in Nvidia OpenCL or CUDA. A: I am 6d1f23a050
