lord denethor i was the first of his line to marry elrond's daughter, elrosia, in an attempt to restore the elvish people's belief in the house of elessar. it is said that the prince told his father about this while in his study, in his room at the high tower of imilitur. denethor was angry when he learned that his son was plotting with the elves to gain access to their lands. [11] the days of november and december were tumultuous ones in imilitur. things started to take a turn for the worse in early december, when a small band of orcs crossed the eastern forests and penetrated the eastern plains. raising havoc in the way of private domains, it was the start of a disaster that would engulf the kingdom in war for almost five decades. having concluded that defeat was inevitable, the lord denethor i prepared to meet his death. having been crowned at the age of fourteen, he had not been involved in politics. his single-minded loyalty to his father meant that he had never seen the need for a council to rule his kingdom. [5] denethor i realized that, as a prince, there were only two options: to govern the kingdom from the council, or perish along with his nation. the king had no time to lose. [5] he assembled his most trusted lords, his sons and grandsons, and his son-in-law and daughter, and together with them, he laid on the table his plans for immediate action. denethor presented the council with his "declaration of doom" and declared that he would rather die on the battlefield than allow his nation to be enslaved.
